THE FEDERAL UNION—THE ABOLITION FALSEHOOD WHICH ANDMATES AND CEMENTS THE PARTY

NUMBER IV-PART I. Let us now review the doctrines of those Jacobinical agitators, who, having hy the nid of other uncompromising sectionalists plunged our country into the bloody maclstrom of child war, seem desperately resolved that we shall not escape with anything less than total national ruin. The first proposition to be

"That negro slavery is a nin or crime of the deepest dye, condemned hy John Wesley as the 'sum of all the villanies,' - condemned hy religion, and ranking with rohbery and piracy in guilt."

We should perhaps apologize for any, however brief, discussion of this question. As a nstional political question we have nothing to do with the moral merits of elsvery. The in-stitutions of our country were established by onr forefathers when great men and true patriots controlled the nation. State Constitutions fixed the condition of the negro, and the Fuderal Constitution confirmed their adjustment by guaranteeing to the separato States the exclusive control of their domestic affairs, and hssing the provisions of thn Faderal Constitution npon the pre-existing Constitutions of the States, recognizing certain persons as being free and others as not free. The condition of the white and black races heing thus deter mined by the Stato and Federal Constitutionsthe former heing a compact among the people of each State, and the latter a compact between the people of the different States-the people of each State were firmly bound and pledged by official oaths, annually rancwed, by a portion of their citizens from that time to the present, to obey and support the ostablished order and vested rights under those Constitutions.

When a citizen or officer of a non-slaveholding State broaches this subject for discussion, it is a sufficient reply, to ask him whether he has any constitutional right to meddle with the subject, and whether he advocates that violations of other sections.

We discuss this question now, merely because bone of the party of anarchy, without the suphead, and would be powerless for evil. Ws George Washington!" would hreak the hackbone first, that the body may lie stlll, while we are leisurely cutting it moral superiority hy abolitionists which is Wenley and Whitfield did not consider slavery the sum of all the villsnies, but it is clear that if those devoted and plous men could have seen such a document as the scurrilons speech On Saturday night the two gnns at Fert Shnler, of Mr. Sumner npon the harhnrism of slavery. they would have considered it, as we have had occasion to prove it, the sum of all the calum. nies that ever were uttered against worthy and religions communities by a vindictive slanderer.

That the maintenance of negro slavery is not a crime, is shown hy the fact that it does not generally shock the moral sense of good, the Adirondeck mountainn, all through Northern pious, enlightened, and philanthropic men, but, on the contrary, often receives their approbation. The znal with which men oppose slavery is not proportioned to their general moral excellence, but rather to their unessy propensity to regulate the moral of their communicated to the prison. Other texts also recognize slavery and prescribe its regulations. Biblical opponents of slavery have nothing to stand on hut their mers assertion that the general spirit of the New Testament, as construed by them, is contrary to the plain and positive Isnguage of many portions of the Bible. They fall back reaches the number of half a million, they esti npon the doctrine of loving our neighbors as ourselves, and say that this law is incompatible with slavery. What think you of it? What if acither of the other modes proves to be cf- encouragement dees it afford you to prompt fectaal, it may become necessary to fall back upon this. The contraband trade in powder must be stopped at all events. It of course should be stopped with the least possible interruption or disturbance to lawful trade. What is the best mode of accomplishing this end is a question that we commend to the immediate consideration of the Government authorities both civil says:

and military.

By the way, the shippers of cotton through the blockeder run a greet many risks that they "wot not off." Who knows bow often these vonturasome merchants have been "sold" by the blockeders themselves? It would be a trick neither the appointment of the officers of election, that a complication might erise under the or that a complication might erise under the or the termselves? It would be a trick neither difficult to conceive agree on the part of a Yankee man-of-war, to send in a craw here, one he was a continued content. that a complication might arise under the original law, which, in article 3, section 1, directs that "each county court shall, in the month of June or July, in every year, appoint two justices of the peace, if so many there be, or one justice and one other suitable person, as judges, and a clerk of the election, for each preciuct in the county." The law of 1858 amending this section of the original law, as our readers are aware, directs that the judges and clerks of election "shall be Distrust is rife among the insurgents. They judges and elerks of election "shall be Distrust is rife among the insurgents. They so selected and appointed as that one begin to look coldly and suspiciously npor of the judges at each place of voting shall be their most active aiders and abetters, and they of one political party, and the other judge seem forced to believe that the Yankees run of the olber or opposing political party; and the blockade to get out cargoes of cotton. The that a like difference shall exist, at each place | Register is in distress; it has no confidence in of voting, between the sheriff and clerk of friend or for; it feels that it is in had company, elections; provided, that there be a sufficient and is a notable example of the truth of the number of the members of each political party saying that "the thicf doth fear each bush an resident in the several precincts, as aforesaid, executioner." to fill said offices." And the law of 1862 amending this latter amendatory law, as our readers are also aware, declares that "those who have ongaged in the rehellion for tho overthrow of the government, or who have in any way aided, counselled, or advised the separation of Kentucky from the Federal Union by force of arms, or adbered to those engaged in the effort to separate her from the Federal Union by force of arms, shall not be deemed one of the political parties in this Commonwealth, within the provision of the act to which this is an amendment." These are the provisions of the law bearing on the subject iu

Now, the possible complication saggested arises from the possibility that there may be in a particular precinct two justices of the peace who are both disloyal. In such a case, it is the jadges of election in each precinct to be of his very name indicates a fellow D. C. contrary political parties, and likewiso the amendatory law of 1862, which declares that the disloyal men of the Commonwealth do not constitute a lawful political party. This is the suggestion; but it is plainly invalid. In the ease suggested, the requirement of the original law is so clearly repugnant to the requirements of the amendatory laws that the repugnancy necessarily implies a negative, and, swings. for this reason, the former yields to the latter, on the well-known principlo of law that "lege posteriores priores contrarias abrogant." It would be the manifest daty of the County Judgo in such a case to act as if the original requirement had never been made or as if there were no justices of the peace in the precinct. The imagined complication vanishes hefore the first touch of sound construction.

The Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser, pablished where the abortive government was first cast upon the world, confesses the movemeat a miserable failure, and lays the blame of the palpable rain upon the mean and shallow men into whose hands the Southern revolution was committed.

The Richmond Examiner predicts a speedy revolution in the Southern Confederacy. By this it means, not that the Confederacy will come back to the old allegiance, but that there will be a Southern and violent uprising to east off the sway of the rebel rulers—that there will in short be a -rehellion within the rebellionjast as if the Sudden Confederacy could staud a home war, a civil war within its own limits, whilet utterly impoverished, exhausted. UNTIL further notice I will pay 6 per cent. interest and borno down by the armies of the United on Deposita for a specified time, and 4 per cent. on the

We certainly look for a speedy upricing in the South against the Rebel Government, but the men who take part in that rebellion will be fighting in the canco of the old Union.

If the rebels are resolved to retreat into "Yellow Jack's" dominions, it is to bo presumed that ''Jack'' will be glad to see them and take them cordially by the hand.

All the rebels of Memphis assembled on the banks of the Mississippi to see the great river-fight. No doubt they felt like a flock of sheep looking at a battle of rams.

"Oppose Mamphis, June 6 — I understand that the city of Mamphis has surrendered. I therefere send my sen, with two U. S. flugs, with instructions to raise one upon the Constem hones and the other upon the Court-house, as ovidence of the return of your city to the care and protection of the Constitution. "CHAS. ELLET, JR , Commanding."

The bearer of the tlags and the above note was ecompanied by Lieut.-Col. Conkell, of the Fifty-inth Illinois regiment, and sixty-two men of the The following is the reply of the Mayor of the Меменіз, Јапе 6. Col. Chas. Ellet, Jr , Commanding, etc.: Sir: Your note of this date is received and the contents noted. The civil authori ies of this city are not advised of its surrender to the forces of the United States Government, and our reply to the United States Government, and our reply tyou is simply to state respectfully that we have no power to oppose the raising of the flags you have directed to be raised over the Custem-house and Posteffice.

and Posteffice. JOHN PARK, Mayor.
On recoiving this reply the small party proceeded to the postellice to raise the National flug and were there joined by the Mayor. It is prope to say that the conduct of the Mayor and some the citizens was unexceptionedle. The party was enrounded by en excited crowd, using angry en threatening language, but they ascended to the top of the postoth se and planted the flag, though fired upon several times and stoned by the mobile slow. Still I believe this conduct was reprobated psilve. Still relieve in the place; indee many evidences of an extensive Union feeling there reach me. Respectfully, CHAS. ELLET, JE.

Approaching Memphis, the guidosts were in the advance. I had received so notice that a fight was expected, but wee informed on landing within eigh, miles of Memphis that the enemy's gunbasts had refreated down the rivor. My first information of the presence of the enemy was a shot which passed over my beat. I had four of my most powerful rams in the advance and ready for any energies. for any emergency. The others were towing the ourges and advancing to the attack. I expected, if course, to be followed by the Monarch, the Lancaster, and the Switzerland. The Momarch came n gallantly. Some of the officers of the Lancae-er, which now he'd the next place in the line, ter, which now hed the next place in the live, here me excited and confined, but the engineers behaved well. The pilot erred in signal and ducked the best ashere and disabled her.

The Captain of the Switzerland construed the general signal order to keep half a mile in the rear of the Laucaster to mean that he was to keep half a mile behind her in the engagement, end, therefore, failed to purticipate. Hence the whole brunt of the fight fell upon the Queen and Monarch. Had either the Laucaster or Switzerland followed, as the Manarch did, the rebel guidbat Van Dun would not heve ascaped, and my thus or tain to good refining—sales 1,000 thids Cuba at 0% @ 0% c, 1,170 bags St. Domingo at 6% c—refined urchanged. The President has sent n meseage to Coogress saying that it is desirable that such legilation as may be necessary to carry the Seward Lyons trealy for thin sin pression of the slave trade into effect shall be enacted us scon as may comport with the convenience of Congrese.

The Navy Department has received de putches hy which it appears that Commander Prentiss, of the Albatros, recently sailed up the interior waters of South Carolina to Georgotown. He crossed the bir or the 21st with his own vessel and the Nerwich, Lieut. Commanding Duncan, and cutered Wyman Biy. After passing a small deserted resembly, which was reserved on South Library with prescription of the strength of the control an extensive fortification was observed on South Island with appirently several large gnce mounted which turned out to be quakers. This portwas found desorted, and the abandoned fortificathe train despetch, and the solution of the first ion was found on Cat Island on the 221.

He stoll for Georgetown, entered Swamptree Creek, and steamed past the city wharf. Not belong prepared to hold the place, he abstained rom taking it, knowing that a centest with the utilizery and cavalry in the place would destroy below. Having assembled to the Waycawan.

MEMPHIS, June 6.

Yesterday morning Fort Pillow, like a dezen other strongholds lately, was eccupied by Union treops, and formed the greatest Federal encess yet achieved on Western waters. Forts Henry, Donelson, Columbus, and No. 10 were works of immense etieegth, but, as specimene of military skill, far benind Fort Pillow. Standing on the battlements—I r hattiements they really were—the visitor, gazleg in wonder at the immesse out-

Aready ooe vessel had turned, when instantly affairs changed, new lestrements in modern navel warfaire appeared. Suddenly a herried puffier, a dashing as if Neptune himself was convolving Father Mississippi, end out from among our gunboats darted the rame Queen and Monarch. With a speed that half buried her prow under weter, the former struck holdly for the nearest Confederate. These were assailants for which they had not prepared, yet immediately the fire of every gun with directed upon our adventurous little vessel. Had a shot struck her, the boilers belegouly protected by woodwork, and the bull not at the visitor, gazleg in wonder at the immeese out-lay of lebor, cannot but think it strange that such work was ever abandoned.
The gnoboats could not have run hy, and still Pillow is for more so. Beck from the river fify yards lin a range of binffs that thirt along the stream for miles, their forest of trees towering in sel. Had a shot struck her, the boilers being only protected by woodwork, and the bull not at all, there was an uspleasant chance of belog disabled and failing captive. But she passed safely, the halls intended for her falling far heyond any of the fiset. On one vessel, the nearest, our little Queen bore down with a terrible velocity. It appeared as if hall at the shock would be dashed to pleces, the stream for miles, their forest of trees towering in rars gradern over the surrounding cennity, sometimes sloping gently down, aed sgain decending entruity, the broken face revealing stretas of iterilor coal and iron ore. At the hottom of the bluffs, directly upon the river's bank and yet still quite high shove the water, lay the principal fortubcations. These are novel in decign and beautifully constructed. They run elong a liee of five hundred yards, jutting out at curions angles, and resembling strangely the turrets of some old castle. Commencing with a hastion, the earthworke continue, relieved svery forty feet or so by other hastions. From one to three guns are meunted in each. At every angle a white-weshed sentry box was placed, resembling greatly repid current aiding her powerful engines. A slight miscalculation on the part of the Qeeen, and desperate effort on that of the rebel, enabled and desperate effort on that of the rebel, enabled the latter to birely avoid her destructive adverery, end sent in shot through in passing. The ram, however, with speed undliminished, breshleg its opponent's stern and knocking off some reiling, darted thirty yards far her on and struck the thereal Price amidships. The collision was fearful; the rabel gueboat's side crushed in like paper, and she carcened until her pipes elmost dipped the water. It sppeared es if she would sink instantly, yet righting again, endeavors were made to force her ashers, while every throe of the engines shook the crazy wreck almost to pieces. are mounted in each. At every angle a white-weshed sentry box was placed, resembling greatly in novel architecture the castles of a chess-board. Some few of the batteries ere faced with stone, and all neatly finlshed. Three magazines tower up, apparently made needlessly lerge. When evacuating, the rebelspeedeavored to take away or destroy everything of value. In this they were successful, if in nothing else. About twenty guns were left, and as we entered their carriages were still hornieg. Several of the pleoes are fine cees, and with new mounting can he mede serviceable. One immense gun was elevated in the manner of a morter, and had evidently been used gines shook the crazy wreck almost to pieces. Just reaching land, it sank. Mesnwhile the first rehel bont had turned and came down upon the Queen, which lay helpless, her own mechinery being disarranged by the recent ebeck, and was ueable to interpixe a but for safety.

The gallant little ram managed to escape, the new with a triling blow on the wheal. While viceable. One immense gun was elevated in the manner of a morter, and had evidently been used as such. Two rified cannon were hurst, no doubt as each. Two rified cannon were harst, no doubt purposely, to prevent future use. An evidence of richel trickery was exhibited at one of the magazines, which had heen prepared to explode the instant its door was opined. One tent with the inscription "Orleans boys," and a pelican drawn opon it, they left behind. A considerable number of shell and ball scattly leid in piles and painted a la ornamental barrack style were elso visible, while half destroyed gan carriages and the nanal dehils of a deserted camp lay on every side. Up on the binffs other works were situated hardly less formidable in character, and consisting of heavy hatteries and miles of riflepits. It is difficult to see how the place could have been taken hed not the rebels evacuated it. The gallant little ram managed to escape, th ngh, with a triding blow on the wheel. While this had been occurring, the Meearch, up less holdly than her comper, dashed among the rabel feet, aed, singling out the Lovell, under full speed atinck her fairly near the wheel, her prow crashing far into the bull, and remaining for a moment featangle as in a vice.

Lawing Fillow, our boat etesmed on down to Bandolph. There was where one of the strongest rebel for's had been reported existing, and seeing the muzzles of huge guns peopleg from spots along the hinf, we commenced a tour of examination. Evening was just eetting in es we stepped eshore at Randolph. At one buildleg, Merrill's store, a few man were sitting on the porch, and assemed anxions to conciliate, although extremely gnarded in masking any statement. A couple of wretched families occupied two houses, but all the rest were vacant. Scattered wherever a favorable location presented itself we found the hatteries, some outher hinff, and others at the foot, in all haif a drain, with as many guns. These latter were epiked and filled to the muzzle with dirt and halls. During the dev quantities of cotton had been towards limited to the muzzle with dirt and halls.

Twelve months had brought business prostration, to the rich man poverty, to the poor man want and ruin—a harder task master than Government was ruing over their city with an iron roil. Under these charged circumstances, on the 6th of May, they witnessed two fleete contending for poeseesion of Memphis. Women by hundreds relieved the dark mass with their bright dresses, and housetops were covered with people. No acrelieved the dark mass with their bright dresses, and housetops were covered with people. No action could there to nincordal for want of witnesses. The engagement commenced at twenty minutes to six this morning, being brought on by the rehel fleet. Coming down from Fort Pillow last night our vessels anchored just above the bend that hides Memphis. We had five gunbeats — the Benton, Calro, Lenisville, St. Lenis, and Carondelet. There they lay during the hours of darkness; but below on the river was active preparation. Steamers could he heard, and the lights of bismphis seen occasionally from the point twinkling brightly on the hiluffs. Daylight had hardly broken when the flag-ship Benton and Lonisville dropped elowly down, preceded by a tug, as avent cornier or econt. The latter, puffing officiously, and meking a terrible fuse, as these sancy crufts always do, hed harely poked its nose around the point, when, close to the Arkaness shore, stealthit, the control of the sactive ment was highest, and the mejority of faces gave token of no very deep or streets while the sactivement was highest, and the mejority of faces gave token of no very deep or streets while the sactivement was highest, and the mejority of faces gave token of no very deep or streets while the sactivement was highest, and the mejority of faces gave token of no very deep or streets while the sactivement was the turn affairs, hed taken. First was a large Gulf steamer, her color derk, and the grent walking beam above deck denoting low pressure engines. From her bow peered out two ngly looking muzzles, while the last sounds of beating to quarters were just dying away at the rear vessels.

This heat was the cld Galveston and New Octeans packet Mexico, rechristened Gen. Brage. Behind her lay other rebel boats, seven in number, Gen. Van Dorn (flig-ship), Gen. Pilce, Jeff Thompson, Gen Lovell, Gen. Bearregard, Sumpter, and Little Robel, all strengthened at the bow as rams, and hearing from three to five gine.

Lovel, Gen. Barangard, Sumpler, and Little Robel, all strengthened at the bow as rams, and hearing from three to five gnoe. Their commander was Commodore Edward Montgomery. Discovering the enemy's Intentione to struggle egaln for possession of Memphis, and whebling his men to have breakfast before trying the isene, Fleg-Officer Davis had signals raised to retire. Hardly had the Benton end Louisville, however, commenced a retrograde movement before all was retirity in the rebel navy. Evidently imagining their emperior numbers hed hidden inferior powers, Montgomery gave the eigeal for action. Out into a line structing across the river mehad the rebel vescels, with chimneys belching clonds of dark smoke, and their speed telling them in that far superior to our vessels. Many of their man were mounted on barbette, and canoniers could be seen ready for darw. Instantly the Little Robe shot sheed, a puff of smoke infect from her bow and a hall whisted over the Benton, striking and akimming along the water beyond. Immediatelytic and her commander, by means of this guy streamers on the staff amidships, teld his feet to go in oscion. The first rebel shot hed been quickly sollowed by two others, all wild and harmless.

Nearest to our opponents was the Calro, and she responded. Then this other great iron-clads, first firing their stern gans, and then as they rounded to copening with deafening tobes their broadsider, went into action. was but momentary. The fire of the rebels slackwas hnt momentary. The fire of the rebels slackoned, and finding their opponents too powerful they commenced falling beck. The Union vessels redoubled their efforts, the iron sides trem bled, and the decks seemed lifting np from the immense concussions below. Shot followed shot, and a ctorm of them whiseled emong the rebel craft, hnt wonderfully quick were the latter in movement, derilog from side to side, and conetantly taking new positioes. Sometimes one yet, like Paddy's fiy, when hit, it wesn't there.

Occalonelly a hall would pass through a rebel governed by only one wheel in the centre, were half steaming balf drifting through the intricacies of a fierce engagement, their vessels retreated easily from reach, or advarced to favorable positions at

The treatment of their prisoners by the rehels in marked contrast with the course pursued by In marked contrast with the counts putuals by the Government with those whom the chances of war throw into its hands. With a few rere ex-ceptions, the secession medness hes cardled the 'milk of human kladness' in the hreaats of the Southern people, and they spare no efforts to heap indignities on the Federal coldiers who fall into indignities on the Federal soldiers who fall into their power. They rack their luganity to devise patty schemes of annoyance, and at times resort to the most brutal measures to make the lives of their prisoners miserable in the extreme.

The prison at Sallbury was a four-stery brick, which, as stated before, had been used as a cotton mill. In the room eccupied by young Causler there were 225 prisoners, who were so hadly crowded not to reeder the taking of any exercise an impossibility. They were not permitted to go into the open air except for water or on the most urgent necessity, and were then allowed only three gent necessity, end were then allowed only three ninutes to return. Ten pegs were hung just on-ide the door of the room in which they were confired, one of which each prisoner was required to take with him when be retired. When the ten pags were exhausted, no one else was pprmitted to leave until by the return of one of the absences: hs was able to possess himself of a pag. This rule had no exception. It was enforced with a rigidity that at times put the prisoners to great Hechivenience and suffering.

When first Mr. Cansler and party arrived at Salishry, the fare of the prisoners, though nothing to compare with that furnished the rebels at Camp Morton, was yet enficient in quantity and pascebls in quality. But soon the rations commenced detariorating both in quantity and quality, put if far, three or four weeks before they were ntil, for three or four weeks hefore they were paroled, the prisoners were compelled to live on a ration consisting of nine onness of bread, mede of a poor quality of flour, and with a yeest that caused the bread to taste like peech leaves, end a small quantity of diluted bean sonp, seasoned with an ounce or two of horse meet. This was the whole fars for weeke. The effects of such food whole fars for weeks. The scurvy commenced its raveges, and had not the order came for the release of the prisoners, Mr. Cansier thinks most of them would soon have been released by the Great Kieg, to whom even Secessionists are forced to succumb. The confinement of itself was destructive to heelth. The limbs of the men batter of the properties of the men batter of the came partially parelyzed, and in the morning when they awoke they would frequently find their legs black from a failure of the blood to pirculate freely; their tkine became parched aed would peal off like daodruff in the head.

The guards were composed of two classes—those who were violent revels and those who had those who were violent received and those who had been Uniou men, some of whom hed been forced lnto the army. The former were brintal, the latter kind. The commander of the Post, a Colenel Briggs, was kind-hearted, but leattentive and careless as to the actions of subordinates. One of these, a Lientenent from Baltimore, was a demon in humas form. Ou one occasion, when large humae form. On one occasion, when larg bodies of rebal troops were passing through the towe, orders were issued for the prisceers not to look out of the windows as they pessed. This Lientenant ermed himself with a nusket and took bis station at the corner of the building. One or two of the prisoners, unmindful of his whorea-houts, end impelled by curlosity to see the passbouts, end impelled by curlosity to see the passing column of resel soldiers, stuck their heeds partially out of the wiedow. The Lieutenant immediately dred, the ball teking effect in the chin of one of the prisoners, making an ugly and peinful wound, from which he suffered intensely for several weeks. At another time, because the prisoners did not lie down promptly at 9 o'clock, according to the rule, and quit telking, the brutal wretch opened the prison door and deliberately discharged the contents of his musket among the prisoners, shooting one of the Jeff Thompson could now be seen peshing towards inud, evidently crippled. Herdly had she reached it when flames hurst forth from her his musket among the prisoners, shooting one of them through the nick, another through the fisshy part of the thigh, and still another through the arm. The treatment of this brute becoming insupportable, the prisoners drew up a protest ad-dressed to the commandant of the post, in which they gave him to understand that, although they were prisoners, they had cortain rights, and rather than remain in the room to be shot down like hogs they would take their lives in their hands, while from numerous plantations curled up tall columns of firms and smoke, the numberless fundamental pyres of old King Cotton. Sometimes a columns of old King Cotton. Sometimes a columns of the column

GENTLEMEN: I am a subscriber to, and a contant reader of, your truly loyal and able paper.
Its patriotic, conservative, and conciliatory course uning this reballon. during this rebelion has endeared it to every tru-lover of his country. I em proud to see that it patriotic appeals for the banding together of th onservatives of all parties for the defeat of th radicals and for the preservation of the Union and the Constitution has been answered by the call of our Immediate representative (Ilon. R. Mallory) in Congress. That move has already instilled new inspiration and hops into the hearte of the loval border State and Southern men. Now, if it will be quickly answered by the Northern records. will be quickly answered by the Northern people by holding their respective county, district, and State meetings of repudiation of the radicals, their doctrines and designs, and by a determined and emphatic determination and resolution to stand him by the Constitution end the laws, and to carry out in the prosecution of thie war the original programmys. These this was in a constraints. al programme, "that this war is not wnged inal programme, "that this war is not waged on their part in any spirit of oppression, or for a purpose of conquest or subjugation or purpose of overthrowing or interfering with the righte or established institution of those (secceed) States, but to defend and maintain the supremecy of the Constitution, with all the dignity, equality, and rights of the several States unimpaired," all will he well. But if not, we are on a gulf of anarchy without hope or promise of ever restoring peace and harmony among our fellow-countrymen. The without hope or promise of ever restoring peace and harmony among our fellow-countrymen. The Northern people should rally as one man to this move. Their Sonthern loyal brathren demand it of them. Their bleeding country calls upon them in lones of thander. The peace end happiness of this nud future generations depend upon it. Rapudate, I beseeth you, all unconstitutional sets, civil or milltary, from whetever sonice they may spring and by whomeoever they are advocated. Not only repudiate the act but also the principle involved and punish the anthors. Treat a Northern traind punish the anthors. Treat a Northern trni-or as a Southern one, and there will be enough Juion men Sonth with the Northern ones to bury eccession and abolitionism in one common grave in sixty daye. Secession and abolitionism are twin devils; they are for the same end but for different purposes; and as econ as the fact is realized and acted upon, the country is eaved, the Uniou restored, and the Constitution preserved, with peace and happiness over our land.
